

Beijing International Bilingual Academy (BIBA; Chinese: 海嘉国际双语学校 a.k.a. "Haijia International Bilingual School") is a private school in Shunyi District, Beijing, China.[1] It serves early childhood through high school. It was established in 2006 under the name of Kinstar International School.[2][3] In 2011, the school was renamed to its present-day name of Beijing International Bilingual Academy.[3] Its students can be Chinese Nationals or foreign passport holders. BIBA is an EduChina School. Currently, it has 1600 students from more than 30 different countries.[4]

Accreditations and Authorizations[edit]

BIBA is accredited, authorized, or a member of the following organizations:[5]

The International Middle Years Curriculum (IMYC)

Cambridge International General Certificate of Secondary Education (IGCSE)

The International Baccalaureate Diploma Program (IBDP)

Association of China and Mongolia International Schools (ACAMIS)

International Schools Athletic Conference (ISAC)

East Asia Regional Council of Schools (EARCOS)

Principals' Training Center for International School (PTC)

Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), a K-12 Accreditation